

CPTSC Research Award Recipients

2013

Pavel Zemliansky

2012

Ann Brady, Joanna Schriber, and Marika Seigel of Michigan Tech. for their proposal titled: “Angles of Repose : Encouraging Productive Exchange among Technical Communication Programs and the Workplace.”

Josephine Walwema and Dana Lynn Driscoll of Oakland University for their proposal titled: “Activating Prior Knowledge through Metacognitive Awareness: An Empirical Study of Professional Writing Courses.”

Tammy Rice-Bailey of the University of Wisconsin Milwaukee for her proposal titled: “Veteran Technical Communicators: Their Take on Quality, Subject Matter Specialists, and Audience.”

2011

Donna Kain, East Carolina University
Fostering International Collaborations in Professional, Technical, and Scientific Communication Programs

Rich Rice, Texas Tech University
Technical Communication Program Development through Culture-centered, Glocal Indian-U.S. Study and Teaching Abroad Exchange Models

Claire Lauer, Arizona State University
12 Designers Responding: Establishing Models of Document Design Feedback in Technical Communication Programs

2010

Janel Bloch, Northern Kentucky University, “Learning from Interns: Recommendations for programs in technical and scientific communication”

Laura Palmer, Southern Polytechnic State University, “Information Literacy Skills of Incoming Master’s Students in Online Technical Communication Programs: An Examination of Faculty Expectations and Student Competencies”

Rebecca Rickly and Gregory Zobel, Texas Tech, “Doctoral Student Research Confidence and Research Challenges”

Heather Shearer and Henrietta Shirk, Montana Tech, “Foundational Research to Develop Resources for Health Communication Programs”

2009

Lisa Meloncon, University of Cincinnati: TechComm Programmatic Central: Updating and Populating a Database of Comprehensive Programmatic Data

Michael Salvo, Purdue University, European Developments in User-Centered Design: Articulating Centers of Practice

Susan Youngblood, Jo Mackiewicz, and Stewart Whittemore, Auburn University, Database for Service Learning Opportunities in Technical Communication (SLOT-C Database)

2008

Susan Popham: African-American Women in a Technical Writing Program

Karl Stolley, Fredrick Logan, and Mathew Ephraim: Free and Open Source Software (FOSS) in Distance Education

2007

Ann Brady and Laurence Jose: Linguistic and Cultural Diversity in Scientific and Technical Communication

Ed Malone: The Role of Historical Studies in Technical Communication Curricula

Elizabeth Avery Gomez: Towards a Lexicon for Diversity in Technical and Scientific Communication Programs: Strengthening the Message in Academic Programs and Professional Organizations

2006

Carolyn Rude and Kelli Cargile Cook: The Academic Job Market in Technical Communication, 2005-2006

Jim Nugent—Technical Communication Certificate Program Instructors: Their Situation and Professional Status

Nancy Coppola and Norbert Elliot—A Community Research Model for Assessment of Programs in Technical and Scientific Communication

2005

Kirk St. Amant—Expanding CPTSC Program Review Activities: Creating a Reviewer Network

Stevens Amidon and Stuart Blythe: Economics, Technology, and the Management of Technical Communication

2004

Kenneth T. Rainey and Roy K. Turner: “STC Management Interviews”

Doreen Stärke-Meyerring and Ann Hill Duin: “Global Program Partnerships in Technical Communication”

Sandra Harner: “Trends in Undergraduate Curricula in Technical and Scientific Communication Programs”

2003

Charlotte Thralls, Mark Zachry, and Kelli Cargile Cook: A Profile of Doctoral Graduates in Professional, Technical, and Scientific Communication, 1995-2000